I've known Rose Noland for 25 years, and I've personally worked with her in several ministries. Her desire to see Christ elevated is a consistent goal. Her passion for the Lord shows in everything she says and does.

One would think that the loss of her husband to cancer would have robbed her joy, but just the opposite occurred. She regularly points to that trial as a time to grow and trust her Savior in a greater way than ever before.

Her faith is genuine, and it shows in her teaching. One of the things that make Rose such an effective teacher is that she believes every word of the Scriptures. She studies well and her deep relationship with Christ shows in all she speaks and writes. Her teaching is practical and her zeal for Christ is contagious. No one compares in Rose's enthusiasm for God and His people.

If you want to renew your fervor for the things of the Lord, spend a few moments with Rose in person or in her books, and you'll soon realize that you've returned to your first love.

Sincerely,

Marvin Patrick
